Farmers plan Austin trip to protest cloud seeding

South Randall County farmers and ranchers, tired over efforts to suppress hail in counties to the south, plan to travel to Austin Tuesday to protest the issuance of a weather modification permit to cloud seeders in Castro County.

Reports this week from Dimmitt indicate, however, the weather modification effort there may not get off the ground due to financial difficulties.

Walter Graham, a Happy area Hereford cattle raiser and leader of the Randall County effort to suppress the hail suppression activities, said last week he doesn't yet know who will go to Austin to protest the issuance of a permit to Better Weather Inc., of Dimmitt. But, he said, someone from the group will attend the hearing.

The Texas Water Development Board is to meet Tuesday to consider issuing a permit to allow weather modification activities to the Dimmitt weather modification service, which is to operate in the western portion of the hail suppression area, an area including primarily Castro and Lamb counties.

The executive director of the water development board, in a recent letter to Randall County Judge Woody Pond, explained that the application by Better Weather Inc., would extend the target area for hail suppression activities northward to the Randall County line.

The board approved a permit last month to allow a weather modification service from Hart to seed clouds over a widespread area primarily in Hale and Swisher counties, but the permit also allows the planes used in the cloud seeding to fly outside the target area by 15 miles.

A report in the Thursday issue of the Castro County News, though, indicates the Better Weather Inc., may not have the financial resources needed to begin cloud seeding operations even if the permit is okayed by the water development board.

The report said the weather modification firm needs $180,000 to conduct its hail suppression program this year, but only $20,000 has been forthcoming from farmers and ranchers in the target area.

The financial report, according to the news story, was made last Monday night and directors of the firm set Monday as a deadline for donations. They also voted to consider cancelling the program if enough money isn't contributed by Monday, the report says.

The firm's cloud seeding operations were scheduled to go into effect April 24 and to continue through October. The firm has asked that land owners and farm operators contribute $1 per cultivated acre for the program, the story says.

If the water development board okays the firm's permit for operations at the Tuesday meeting, cloud seeding planes will be flying over portions of Randall County to seed clouds, in spite of a resolution passed by Randall County commissioners two weeks ago urging that all weather modification activities be halted over Randall County.

Harry P. Burleigh, executive director of the water development board, in a lengthy letter to Pond, said if the permit is approved and retains the same restrictions applied to the permit issued to the Plains Weather Improvement Association in Hart in mid-March, planes will be flying 15 miles into Randall County for their weather modification runs.

The Plains Weather Improvement permit was restricted, he said, so that planes can operate only within an area 15 miles beyond the target zone.

"With this restriction, the cloud seeding aircraft will not be allowed to dispense seeding materials while flying over Randall County," he said. "Because the northern boundary of the target area for this project is 15 miles south of the Randall County line, the project should have no effects in Randall County."

If the same 15-mile restriction is placed on the permit issued Tuesday to Better Weather Inc., Burleigh said, the cloud seeding aircraft "will be permitted to operate 15 miles north of the south Randall County line. As in prior years, the permit will stipulate that no clouds are to be seeded outside the target area which would affect any lands outside the target area."

Gregory outlines 'CIA plot'

Brandishing a photograph he claims proves the CIA was involved in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, nationally-known black comedian Dick Gregory reiterated for a numbed West Texas State University audience of 300 his charges that Lee Harvey Oswald didn't work alone in the shooting of the late President.

Gregory, who spoke for four hours without break Friday night on the local campus, levelled a verbal shotgun at President Ford, Vice President Rockefeller, FBI Director Clarence Kelly and other national leaders, claiming a giant conspiracy is at work in this country to undermine the American democratic experiment.

The comedian, who recently gained national publicity when he called for a renewed effort to open an investigation into the death in November 1963 of Kennedy in a Dallas parade, outlined the evidence which he says leads him to conclude the Warren Commission opted for an easy out in its report of the fatal shooting.

Terming the CIA "an insane, degenerate organization," Gregory showed a photograph taken by a Dallas newspaper photographer which Gregory says (See PLOT, Page 6)

BLOCK AND BRIDLE CLUB members from West Texas State University entertained about 1,300 kindergarten and first grade students from the Texas Panhandle at a "kids day show" at the university agricultural barns on Friday. The youngsters were involved in getting a firsthand glance at horses, baby calves, baby pigs, baby chickens, and baby sheep. The open house was held in conjunction with the observance of "Young Children's Week."

City commission must pass on franchise

Cable TV company to seek okay

Canyon television viewers will have the opportunity to plug into a variety of stations from Amarillo and the Dallas-Fort Worth area if city commissioners approve a franchise now proposed by an Amarillo family corporation.

T.D. Austin of Amarillo said he has prepared the paperwork to seek a franchise to operate Canyon Cable TV, a family-owned corporation which will offer cable television viewing to local residents for a monthly fee.

He said the franchise is tentatively scheduled to go before city commissioners for their consideration on April 21.

If commissioners approve the franchise, Austin must then seek approval to operate the firm in Canyon from the Federal Communications Commission.

He said cable television for Canyon could be in operation within 12 months after commission approval is given.

"We have a lot of experience, we have the money and we have always been in the Panhandle of Texas and we think we have the opportunity to build a real nice system," Austin said.

As proposed by Austin, cable TV offerings for Canyon viewers would include two independent Dallas area stations and a Dallas educational channel.

He said a channel would also be reserved for use by West Texas State University for possible televising of classes and also for use by the Canyon School District for the same purpose.

An FM radio station would also be offered.

Austin said he has had 20 years experience in the cablevision and communications business and is now employed by a major cablevision chain.

He serves on the advisory board for the Dodge City, Kan., Community College and has aided in the development of an adult and continuing education program on cablevision for that college.

WTSU graduate student thesis indicates

County consolidation not answer

By JUDY TOLK
University Editor

The consolidation of Potter and Randall Counties is not necessarily the most appropriate or the most beneficial solution to perceived economic and social problems in the Amarillo metropolitan area, the thesis of a West Texas State University graduate student indicates.

"I would seriously question whether the consolidation of the two counties would even be feasible from several standpoints," Carroll Wilson, whose major is political science, said of his masters' thesis.

The 200-page research paper written under a committee consisting of Dr. Travis McBride, chairman of the political science department, David Matthis, associate professor of political science, and Dr. Hubert Oppie, chairman of the sociology department, is entitled "Consolidation of Potter and Randall Counties: A Study."

Wilson said his working hypothesis for the research effort, which began last July, was "that the consolidation of Potter and Randall counties into one governmental unit would result in economic benefits for taxpayers in both counties, that it would be legally and politically feasible and that it would to a large extent solve, or work to solve, some of the problems which Amarillo faces in the future in terms of growth and in terms of control of growth in the area."

The idea for the study, Wilson said, came from the fact that "since about 1970 several county officials, including Randall County Democrats meeting in convention, have recommended out-of-hand that either consolidation be studied as a feasible solution to the problems or that it be implemented.

"My feeling was that there should be a study," he said, "and I approached it with the idea that it would be feasible and ended up showing that it wouldn't."

Because of his job as editor of The Canyon News, a Randall County-based newspaper, Wilson said "I expect skepticism (of my report). I anticipate it, because I have been critical of talk of consolidation in the past."

Wilson maintains his study is as "objective as it can be" because "I have a three-man committee which has overseen my work and because I anticipated from the start that there would be skepticism and I tended to over compensate on the side of objectivity because of this."

To consider the feasibility of consolidation from an academic angle, Wilson said he examined available literature which stretches back to 1917. While consolidation was considered a solution, and even tried three times in Georgia and Tennessee, "academics today and students of county government have dropped consolidation as a solution to problems facing urban counties."

Wilson, who is "not an attorney," was aided in his legal research by District Judge George Dowlen, and approached the problem as "Is it legal to consolidate?"

"The answer was it can be done but it would be a quagmire unbelievable to step into," he said. "There would be several very real roadblocks from both the constitution and the statutes that would make it an incredible mess to try to do."

"It is feasible, but only if whoever is doing it is willing to dig through the law, develop a plan, (See COUNTY, Page 2)

Ad hoc group hears new ambulance plan

An ad hoc committee consisting of city and county commissioners and hospital board members heard a formal proposal for ambulance service in the city and county area Wednesday.

Richard Bertrand, ambulance operator for Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors here, outlined a proposal which would cost each governmental unit $800 per month to operate.

Two city commissioners, two county commissioners and two hospital board members met in the special session, which was unannounced to the public, with Bertrand.

The six representatives asked Bertrand to produce a financial statement for review and they are not expected to meet again. They are to report back to their individual governmental bodies on the proposal.

Those meeting were County Commissioners Paul Lindsey and Dee Griffin Jr., City Commissioners Pat Stephens and Willis (See PLAN, Page 6)

Simpson, Sherman okay new state constitution

Randall County's two state legislators in Austin voted for a proposition to submit a revised Texas Constitution to a vote of the electorate next fall.

State Sen. Max Sherman and State Rep. Robert Simpson said last week they cast their ballots for submission of the document which failed to pass a similar test last summer during the closing hours of an historic constitutional convention.

Both Simpson and Sherman said they cast yes votes on each article as submitted to the Senate and the House. The Senate approved the document more than a week ago and the House voted approval early last week.

Sherman had likewise cast a yes vote on the document last July after working six months as a member of the constitutional convention. Simpson, who took office in January, voted exactly opposite on the issue to the vote that was cast last July by then Rep. Bryan Poff. Poff voted against submission of the convention document to the electorate.

"I felt like the people deserved an opportunity to vote on that document which cost them so much money," Simpson said of his vote.

He said the alternative to approval of the document as presented by the convention was the formation of a citizens convention to convene later this year to begin anew the revision process.

"This document is far superior to the present constitution, it will give some flexibility and it will take things that should be statutes out," he said. "I feel like it's a much better document than the present document."

Simpson and Sherman said they were not given much citizen input on the proposed revision.

"I had no response at all," Simpson said.

Sherman said many senators changed their votes on the convention document — those who (See STATE, Page 2)

City senior citizens start fund drive

A fund-raising drive for the Canyon Senior Citizens Association began with a boom Thursday night when members of the group donated $3000 in cash toward a building fund.

The $3000 collected from the membership brings the total in the fund to $6400, according to President Dutch Cleavinger.

The association's goal is to raise $22,500 to purchase the old First Christian Church building from the University Church of Christ.

Cleavinger said a contract for the purchase of the old church was signed early last week and the Senior Citizens Association, which numbers more than 120 members, will take possession of the building when the entire $22,500 is paid off.

Cleavinger said the fund-raising drive will continue until the funds are raised for the structure purchase. He said local merchants and residents will be given the opportunity to donate for the fund.

The association has had a series of ups and downs during the (See FUND, Page 6)

SPEEDERS BEWARE. The Canyon Police Department is now using a new, portable radar unit called the Speedgun. Officer Lana Grogan is shown sighting in on speeders with the radar unit which has a maximum effective range of one-half mile. According to Lt. Marsh's seat still up in air

Don Marsh, who hasn't been elected to office since 1971, will remain as a Randall County school trustee until the Texas Attorney General renders an opinion on the legality of Marsh's tenure.

The decision expected from other county school board members Thursday turned out to be a non-decision on the newly-controversial non-election of Marsh.

Board members decided not to appoint either Marsh or an Amarillo insurance agent, Gordon Hendricks, to Marsh's position, primarily because they couldn't even decide whether Marsh's seat on the board is vacant.

A motion by Charles Purcell, re-elected to the county school board last Saturday, to appoint Hendricks, who had filed for election to Marsh's seat, died for lack of a second as trustees spent the bulk of their meeting trying to figure out who should be the trustee from precinct 4.

The situation when the meeting began was this:

Hendricks had filed for election to the trustee seat from precinct 4, while Marsh, the incumbent since 1969, had not filed. An Attorney General's ruling rendered shortly before the Saturday election specifically said that the voters in precinct four, because they live wholly within the Amarillo School District, could not vote for or against any candidate. Thus, trustees were faced Thursday with the decision as to whether Marsh or Hendricks should be appointed to fill the two-year term for which no one could be elected.

County Judge Woody Pond brought a little clarification to the meeting when he told the trustees he had discussed the pending situation with a representative of the attorney general's office and also with an attorney from the office of the Texas Education Commissioner.

Pond said the verbal opinions rendered by both attorneys were that either Marsh or Hendricks could be appointed to the trustee seat from the precinct.

But, the county trustees balked at that decision, but in the meantime were stumped by another problem, this one posed by Marsh himself. (See MARSH, Page 6)

Our World

A Lack Of Goals

By ANN BROWN

Authorities estimate between 30,000 and 50,000 American children died from parental abuse in 1974.

Many thousands of others were maimed, crippled, twisted psychologically, or rendered mentally defective by parents (or step parents).

Dr. Ray E. Helfer, a nationally recognized authority on child abuse, says the number of children under 5 who die each year at the hands of their parents exceeds the number of children in that age range who die from all diseases combined.

What is done with adults who cripple and kill the children entrusted to their care?

Little — if anything.

A Nevada man who admitted beating a 4-year-old girl to death near Dixon, Calif., in 1972 was recently sentenced to prison for up to 15 years.

The sentence is to be served concurrently with a life term he is serving in Nevada for killing another child.

As appalling as such reports are, there are millions of American children being destroyed even more completely than those being beaten to death.

Recently, two reporters for "California Living Magazine" interviewed a number of children ages 8 to 14 on their attitude toward life.

Not one of the children reported believing in God, work, marriage, or morality.

When asked if she made anything, an 8-year-old girl said, "Yeah. I make people sick." She diagnosed the trouble with our country as jails, dumb cops, and schools.

"You don't need to learn things," said the cynical child. "Just go into the store and grab things."

The other children interviewed more or less agreed with her philosophy. If such children survive to dominate the world, will it survive them?

Belongingness, according to the most reputable psychiatrists, is the basic human need.

Children from fragmented homes often join gangs in an effort to find a place where they can belong.

Leading theologians agree that belonging is essential to human welfare, but insist that first of all, one needs to feel that he belongs to God — One greater than himself.

Jesus said, "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

One does not have to be a scientist or a theologian to realize the truth of that statement.

The mechanic has to know what's wrong with a stalled car before he can make it run again.

The doctor has to know what's wrong with a sick man before he can make him well.

Dr. Werner von Braun expressed the feeling of most scientists when he said objectively seeking truth inevitably leads one to God.

When children do not learn the truth about God, they seldom accept the other eternal verities either.

It was God who instituted marriage, work, learning, and obedience to moral and civil laws.

Children (or adults) without faith in God are like rudderless ships on the ocean: almost certain to end up debris on some rocky shore.

In his book, "Schools Without Failures," Dr. William Glassner is simply taking the negative approach to the classic statement, "Nothing essayed, nothing gained."

The students can't fail because they have no goals to begin with.

The teachers, according to Glassner, must stress that there are no right answers, no constant truths, and no moral principles that cannot be changed to meet a given situation.

(Short change teacher or children on the price of a hamburger — and see how quickly they abandon Glassner's philosophy.)

There is a God-shaped blank in every human heart; if it is not shaped by truth, it will be shaped by error.

One must belong to something, and good and evil are the only choices.

Little children who are murdered by their parents, are at least transported to a happier, better world.

Children who are not taught the truth about their Creator, live miserably in this world, and more miserably in the next.

and then get the Legislature and people to go along with it," he continued.

"It would take more than just passing a constitutional amendment."

Wilson relied on questionnaires and interviews with Amarillo and Canyon city commissioners and Potter and Randall county commissioners, to explain problems now facing Amarillo and Canyon and potential solutions to these problems.

"Amarillo city commissioners viewed consolidation as something that would help Amarillo's growth: Canyon commissioners viewed it as something that would necessarily stymie Canyon's growth and would reduce its political voice, and Randall and Potter county officials don't believe it would affect growth."

"So far as future growth is concerned, we can't answer that question," he said.

Wilson restricted his study to only the problems Amarillo faces which are also problems facing county government, such as land use, zoning, subdivision development and fire and police protection.

"As to whether consolidation would solve these problems, the answer is no," he observed. "County governments are severely restricted by the Texas constitution — they can not pass ordinances, can not zone and they can not set building standards."

To analyze the economic factors, Wilson compared the expenditures of Potter and Randall county offices.

"Then I set up a model budget, very rough, to see what a combined budget would look like and then compared that to the Lubbock County budget," he said. "I did not assess efficiency of operations, however, because I did not have either the time or the money."

He determined that the cost would not be significantly decreased, and that "it would cost Randall county taxpayers more tax money and Potter county less."

He also determined that duplication of governmental efforts would not be reduced by consolidation, primarily because "a county, no matter what size, is still a county, with all the restrictions that implies." He said a more reasonable approach to a reduction of duplication would be possible consolidation of counties and city.

"In summary, legally it would be a problem, historically it has not been viewed as an appropriate response to problems, economically it would be a mixed bag, and politically it would not have the backing of the current county commissioners court or the Canyon City Commission," he said.

"It is a lot more complicated than what I have gotten into here," Wilson said. "This is a very simplistic outline of the paper."

"The real crux" for alleviating money problems, Wilson maintains, "is cooperation."

"There are provisions which are not being used, or people don't know about or refuse to use that could lead to cooperation and the solving of problems."

Wilson will present his report to the Randall County Commissioners Monday.

By CARROLL WILSON

Remember how irritated Americans became a couple of years ago when President Nixon or Spiro would get on TV and make a short speech on some topic and then all those TV boys would sit around and tell us what the President really said and why he said it and what impact it would have on our opinion?

A lot of folks, including conservative columnists, went into a livid tirade about what they termed "second-guessing" the President.

What they were really mad about was not that the TV boys were trying to second guess the President, but that the TV boys were participating in what has become probably the biggest pastime in America in the last five years — motive seeking.

Americans critical of the TV boys called it second-guessing because they didn't want to say they were mad because the TV boys were doing exactly what most Americans take a great joy in doing every day — questioning the motives of everyone they come in contact with.

The great American assumption, one underlying our actions for at least five years if not longer, has been that everybody else in the country is a liar, but what they say may be true, but why they said it is the really important thing.

So, from President Ford's mouth comes the words, more or less paraphrased thus: "We should give the South Vietnamese $722 million in military aid and $250 million in humanitarian aid."

And the first thing that pops into people's minds is that even though the President's request may be logical and justified, it is suspect because the President said it. We want to know why he said it, what motivated him.

One theorist has explained that actually the President is motivated entirely by politics and he asked for a massive amount of military aid so Congress would turn him down and then he could traverse the country next year prior to the national conventions and tell all the world how the lousy Democrats in Congress wouldn't support him.

Or, for a more historic example, if Nixon gets on the tube and tells America we've got an energy problem, the commentators begin looking for the hidden motive and, viola, we are told that Nixon really wanted American oil companies to make bigger profits.

The folks who are the most involved in looking for the real motives behind today's headlines are those on the extreme right and left fringes politically.

John Birchers talk in hushed tones of a national and international communist conspiracy which incorporates such dupes as Nelson Rockefeller and Henry Kissinger as fellow travelers. Americans, by the way, are manipulated by the international communists for their own purposes and every action taken at the national level is cited as just another bit of evidence that "they're" out to get us.

The leftists see a conspiracy too, but it's not communism. They see our national leaders motivated by the quest for money and power and the manifestation of that quest in the manipulation of us common folks in preparation for the soon-to-be-established establishment of a neo-Hitlerian fascist state which they can control.

I've decided all these people can't be wrong, that there must be more to this business of looking behind what is said for the reason it was said. I've read a little psychology and for the last couple of months I've been putting to use some of those things I've learned from TV and my left- and right-wing friends.

Like the other day, I got up about 6:30 a.m. and I showered and shaved and put on my clothes and my wife was still asleep.

"What're you doing?" I said as I shook her awake. "How come you're not up cooking me some breakfast like other wives do?"

She sat up in bed and wiped her eyes.

"I'm sorry," she said. "You never eat breakfast and I just assumed that since you haven't eaten breakfast since we got married eight years ago that you wouldn't want breakfast on this particular morning."

"Oh, yeh," I said cynically. "That's a likely story. You're trying to starve me to death, that's what you're trying to do. You don't fix me breakfast because you want me to be less than up to snuff in the mornings and so I'll fail. I know what your real motives are. You can't fool me."

I felt better as I left the house with my stomach full. I'd taught her. When you can really read other peoples' motives, you can get things done.

"Good morning," our office bookkeeper said to me as I arrived at work.

"Why'd you say that?" I asked her point blank. I could tell by her shocked expression that I'd really gotten to her. "What'd you mean 'good morning'? You're just trying to make me think it's a good morning. I know it's not a good morning. Quit manipulating me."

And she thought she'd been programming me to have good mornings all these years. Humph.

Later in the morning I began to notice that nobody in the office was speaking to me. So I called a staff conference.

"What's up?" I asked, scowling. "How come I've been getting the cold shoulder around here?"

"You haven't been getting the cold shoulder," a typesetter responded. "We just haven't had anything to say to you."

"Oh, yeh," I said. "You're just trying to isolate me, make me feel lonely and unloved, remove my identity as a person, someone to be cherished just because I'm me. You can't fool me."

Since I've been doing this, I've discovered something I didn't recognize before. People are basically no damn good. I've become an expert at this business of questioning motives and I can tell you that you better watch what people say. They'll say anything while they try to stab you in the back.

Motive questioning has sure made my life simpler. Too bad there's no one around I can share it with.

About 30 members and pledges of Kappa Alpha Order, a social fraternity on the WTSU campus, went to Amarillo Thursday and donated blood at the Coffey Memorial Blood Bank. The blood is to go to the Shriners Burn Hospital in Galveston. The group donates blood twice a year for the hospital.

voted against passage last summer turned about and voted for when presented the document again this spring.

"I think they went home and found the people were pretty unhappy about it," he said.

Sherman said he is still pleased with the document and would recommend the voters give their okay to the replacement for today's 1870's vintage constitution. The document will go to the voters on an article-by-article basis on Nov. 15.

The senator said from the standpoint of his constituency, the constitution seems to provide for several things which are not now allowed under the current constitution. For example, he said, the document will allow more control over the budget and will also give the governor more power over boards and agencies in the executive branch.

"I think it's one I can recommend," he said.

In passing the new revision effort out for a vote of the people, House members added at least one substantive amendment to the proposed education article, an amendment called for by regents of Texas colleges and universities outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

West Texas State University Regents Chairman Cloyce K. Box of Dallas led an attack on the education article as passed by Senators, claiming the article worked to take from the regents' hands control of bond issues.

The amendment passed by the House would leave the control of bond issues in the hands of local boards.

Sherman said the Senate is expected to act on the document as amended by the House early this week and he anticipates no problems in the passage.

Our Thanks To The News

Gentlemen:

The Gene Howe Parent Teacher Association expresses its deepest gratitude for the excellent coverage given to Gene Howe's Tenth Anniversary and Open House!

We were honored that Mr. Martin took time from his busy schedule to come and share "a few kind words" with us.

It's obvious that Mr. Wilson has an exceptional talent when it comes to deciphering hastily-written notes and in spelling everyone's name correctly.

The news coverage was above par and correct in every way. Your personal interest, though, is much more important and appreciated.

Rains Help Wheat

A traditional, slow spring rain Thursday followed by a day of dampness put the shine on a fairly bright wheat crop picture for Randall County farmers.

Most areas of the county reported receiving amounts from Thursday's shower which varied from just under one inch to just over 1½ inches of rain.

County Agent John Brazzil said reports from Jowell, Umbarger, Canyon and the north portion of the county indicated the rainfall was generally spread over the entire county.

"It was slow and gentle and it all soaked in with no run-off," Brazzil said.

The rain brightened the prospect for a record wheat crop for the county's farmers, with a record acreage sown and adequate moisture throughout the growing season.

"It was timely because now we're starting the growth of wheat in the stage where it's making the head for the crop," he said. "It's one of the timely things that came at the right time."

Brazzil said the rain, which began falling about 9 a.m. and stopped just at dusk Thursday, should carry the wheat crop "way on down the line."

"We haven't made the crop yet, but it adds a lot to it," he said.

Brazzil said the dry weather of the spring so far has not hampered the prospects for a good crop and that the rain would enhance the crop.

Some irrigation farmers had already begun watering their crops last week before the rain fell, but Brazzil said the water situation was not critical for them either.

Canyon officially received .89 inches of rain from the slow-moving storm, which unusually was not accompanied by hail or high winds. Other reports from other areas of the city showed more than an inch of moisture.

Brazzil said the prospect for the crop this year seems more promising due to the rains, but is also promising because of the lack of greenbugs in numbers substantial enough to cause serious damage to what are now hardy and vigorous wheat plants.

No spraying has begun on croplands here, he said.

"The population has been below that which would be economically damaging in most fields," he said. "The vigor of the plant is in our favor. They can tolerate a high greenbug population without damage."

He said it appears many farmers may make it through to harvest without having to spray for the perennial insects.

Nor has wheat streak mosaic, a disease which attacks wheat with no apparent cure, caused a significant problem this year, the county agent said. He said last year a good portion of the county wheat acreage was attacked by the disease.

GED Program's Objectives Give Opportunity To Finish Schooling

By LORENA MILLER
The first year for Canyon's Education Association program offering the GED (grade equivalency diploma) to area individuals was begun in February and thus far four persons, who might otherwise never have completed their high school education requirements, have been approved to receive their GED certificates following five indepth tests taken in Amarillo. The GED program which must be approved by any participating town's local school board opened here in February and thus far 25 have tested for the program with an average class attendance of 17, according to Mrs. John Childs, local instructor. Under the direct guidance of Dr. Ken Hart of Canyon High School, Mrs. Childs took over the classroom instruction for the local program of the Canyon Division when it was begun. She has previously taught two years with the Army Education Program which offers a similar diploma equivalency testing system.

equivalency program, further explained Mrs. Childs, a participating student must have been out of school for one year and be a minimum of 18 years old.

"And thus our public school students must at least attempt the local education program to seek their public school diploma," she stated. "Recent dropouts of Amarillo Schools may apply for participation in the equivalency program here, or recent dropouts from Canyon Schools can apply for the equivalency programs offered there — but the inconvenience of attending classes in another area is a deterrent so that students will complete their regular education in their own high schools."

"Our classes are held each week at Rex Reeves Elementary School on Tuesday evenings from 7-10 o'clock and enrollments are taken each week," she noted.

From the original GED program enrollees four have recently completed their five equivalency tests (which usually require about 10 hours of answering questions) in Amarillo and Mrs. Childs is justly proud of the original group.

She further noted that presently about ten other early enrollees in the Canyon section of the GED program are ready to take their completion tests in Amarillo. The local program will continue with weekly classes through April 29 and will then discontinue until September, but those enrolling now may continue their studies privately through the summer months, according to the instructor. Tests will continue through June.

It's been 14 years since I was in the classroom," stated Glenda Pryor after completing her GED testing. "I wanted to set a good example for my children and also wanted to qualify myself for enrolling in training to become a registered nurse (RN) which requires a high school diploma. I've worked for years in hospital's as a nurse's aid — but wanted to advance too," she related.

Mrs. Pryor, who'll be receiving her GED certificate soon, has two children, Rusty, age 9, and Jeffrey, age 5, who are both justly proud of their mother's accomplishment along with her husband, Roger.

Another Canyon GED program enrollee completed her testing last week and found that her main problem with the program was "getting back into the habit of studying."

Sue Boehning, who enrolled in the GED program here after 18 years out of the classroom, said that the fundamentals of the study came easy. She had dropped out of public school 18 years ago in order to go to beauty school training and since was married to Gerald Boehning in 1965. The Boehnings have five children, Mark, 14; Patti, 10;

Gary, 8; Brian, 6; and Jeffrey, 2. "When you have a family to take care of and want to improve your job situation too," related Mrs. Boehning, "the GED program is great, and my children were great hands to help out with anything they could so that I had the time required to study toward this goal."

The third GED participant questioned, Mrs. Rosa Mae Rowe stated that she had been out of the classroom for 24 years when she applied here.

"I quit school at the mid-term of my ninth grade," she said. "And now I want to improve my job qualifications by going on to LVN schooling and besides it'll give my children and grandchildren pride in what I have accomplished."

Although her studies started out as a "set an example" type idea, Mrs. Rowe stated that the most trouble encountered was having the time to get down to studying with a lot of family activity going on around her. She was especially appreciative of the classroom atmosphere for her studies because she felt she accomplished her goal with a special time set aside to study and an instructor present to give necessary advice at times.

It is understandable that Mrs. Rowe would encounter a "time" problem in her studies since she has four children at home to care for including Lee Rowe and Danny Whitehead, both 16, and Shellie and Annette Rowe, 12 and 7, respectively. Otherwise, Mrs. Rowe has three grown sons, Johnny, Ricky and Buddy in South Texas and three grandchildren.

Self-employed as a paint and dry wall contractor, W. D. Walker had been out of the classroom about over 30 years when the local GED program offered him the chance to complete his high school education. He had been a student of Canyon Public Schools when he "quit" to serve in World War II, according to his wife.

Mrs. Walker, who completed her schooling at Canyon in 1942, recalled that the couple was married in 1945 and Mr. Walker took some college courses here after his return from the service but he "had always wanted to finish high school" and the GED program being offered locally finally gave him the opportunity to do just that.

"He didn't have near the trouble with studies that he expected to encounter," recalled his wife. "He had always liked and been good at math, but the English seemed to come easy too."

The Walkers have two daughters who have completed high school and even earned their university degrees. Their daughter, Patricia, recently finished university studies at Oklahoma University in Norman, Oklahoma and the other daughter, Mrs. Judy Bowers, completed university studies while at West Texas State University.

In addition to their daughters, the Walkers have a ten-year-old son, Dub, now attending Canyon

Schools in the third grade. "We are both hoping for Dub to complete his schooling — just like his dad did after all these years," concluded Mrs. Walker.

Two year old Jeffrey is as proud of his mother's accomplishment in completing the GED testing as is Sue Boehning, mother of four other youngsters, and the wife of Gerald Boehning.

"might" be of CIA operatives Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis. The photo is of three men standing in the crowd near the parade route which Kennedy's entourage took through Dallas and by the school book depository building from which, the Warren Commission said, Oswald fired the fatal shots.

Gregory is apparently pursuing his quest for a reopening of the investigation into the assassination while also believing that Kennedy was just as evil as the other power leaders in the East.

He claimed Kennedy was killed by the CIA because he was fighting for power in the Eastern establishment, power held by the Rockefellers and Du Ponts, and because he had fired both the director and deputy director of the agency in that effort.

Gregory said the brother of the deputy CIA director fired by Kennedy was also the mayor of Dallas at the time Kennedy was assassinated.

The speaker intimated the CIA may also have killed the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, who he claims slipped in an interview with a national television commentator and said Oswald didn't work alone in the assassination.

Hunt and Sturgis have denied they were in Dallas the day of the assassination and Hunt, according to Gregory, has threatened to sue the comedian for his allegations.

But, Gregory said Hunt and Sturgis were involved in gun-running activities to Cuba and one of their aides was Jack Ruby, the man who on national television shot Oswald in a Dallas police station.

Gregory's speech covered a wide range of topics, including women's liberation, health and nutrition, democracy in America, "niggers," young people, drugs, religion, Vietnam, politics and so on.

He painted a verbal picture of a power elite controlling and manipulating Americans, who Gregory blasted for "playing your games," for the purpose of ruling over the demise of American democracy.

Gregory said the rich and powerful who control America, including Nelson Rockefeller in a central role, have manipulated Americans through television violence, through despoliation of food and drink, and through subtle propaganda.

The crux of his talk: Americans fiddle while American democracy burns.

Young people, Gregory said, young Americans who had the moral force of integrity and ethics to force the retirement of Johnson and to bring a halt to the fighting in Vietnam, young Americans who he said have become "the new niggers" in this country, could be the salvation of the country.

He urged the young people to under Graham's leadership to protest the weather modification activities, which they claim have led to a reduction in rainfall in Randall County in recent years.

The farmers and cattlemen protested the March 18 permit. They say efforts by Plains Weather Improvement Association aircraft work not only to suppress hail but also to suppress any moisture in clouds.

They have also met with county commissioners from other surrounding counties for passage of resolutions similar to that passed in Randall County.

They have also met with county commissioners from other surrounding counties for passage of resolutions similar to that passed in Randall County.

Bertrand has offered to purchase the service and operate it independently, but in his proposal to the governments has asked for an increased subsidy from each. Currently, the city pays $800 per month subsidy to the funeral home-operated service. The county now pays about $325 per month subsidy to the funeral home. The hospital district, which has just opened its new Palo Duro Hospital in January, has not paid any subsidy for the ambulance service.

The city's contract with Schooler-Gordon to provide ambulance service here expired as of March 31, but the funeral home has said it will continue service until another solution is worked out.

"Do I get to vote?" on the appointment, he asked.

"Nope," Pond responded.

"I don't have a successor yet," Marsh countered.

"I don't care whether you do or not," Pond said, and then turned to Board Chairman R.B. Gist Jr. "He can vote if he wants to."

"What's your pleasure?" Gist asked the other board members.

"We've got to vote don't we?" asked Purcell.

"I don't believe we have enough law to act on it here," replied Board Member J.D. Barker.

"If you don't take a vote," said Pond, "then this gentleman (Marsh) will stay on until a successor or he is renamed to the board."

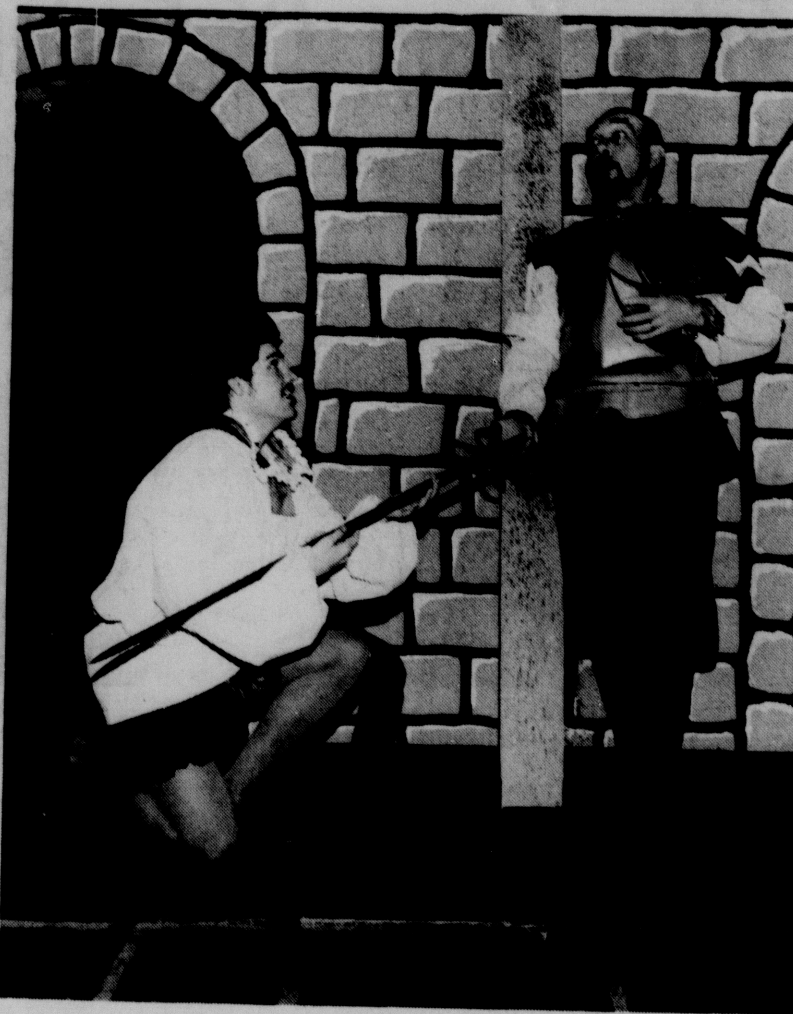

"I think we owe him (Hendricks) the courtesy of a decision," Purcell said.

"Canyon School Supt. Jerry Jacobs told the board it was his opinion that since Marsh didn't file, and such filing was required in the election order issued by the board prior to last Saturday, it might be that Hendricks should be appointed."

"It's a messed up affair, I'll tell you," Pond said.

"There's no advantage to delaying this until we get a decision (from the attorney general)," Purcell said. "I'd like to see action today."

Pond suggested that Marsh remain as trustee until an attorney general opinion could be rendered on how the trustees are to figure themselves out of the quagmire.

Library's Friends Outline New Projects

The Canyon Friends of the Library volunteer organization conducted an executive business session in conjunction with a noon luncheon Thursday, April 10, at the Yum Yum Tree Restaurant in Canyon.

Several projects were discussed including a new library service for shut-in residents whereby the Canyon City Library will furnish books to the sick, elderly and others unable to use the checkout services of the local library. Books may be selected by the shut-in resident by phoning the library at 655-9271 during afternoon library hours.

"If the library user does not know what book," noted the librarian Mary Huntington "we will make a selection for their reading area and this selection will then be sent to the patron with return postage, label, etc., included."

"It will be a free service to library users who are shut-in and unable to use the local library," she stated.

Another project was outlined by the "Friends" at their meeting Thursday whereby a book cart is planned for loan of library books to the Palo Duro Hospital for patients to check out there. The project is ready to be instituted as soon as the book cart is made available, the building of which has been assumed by members of the Canyon Senior Citizens.

Further discussion was lent to the May 3 book sale by the "Friends" which is to be held at Canyon Community Center. Manning the book sale will be Mrs. Bryce Slack and other volunteers. Presently Rev. Terry

White and Earl Reynolds are heading up the collection of books, records, tapes, prints, and paperback selections to be sold in the project. Containers are placed throughout the city and larger donations will be picked up from residents by calling either Rev. White or Reynolds.

Presently the Canyon Friends of the Library has a membership of 184 volunteers and membership is still open to any resident desiring to join. Memberships for individuals range from $1 annually to sustaining memberships of $10 annually or a life-time membership for a $100 donation or more. Group memberships are $5 for clubs and associations and any individual or group desiring to join the group may do so by contacting Conway Kuykendall, Friends treasurer, at the Randall County Courthouse.

Next executive luncheon session for the "Friends" will be May 8 at 12 noon at the Yum Yum Tree Restaurant and will be open to all persons interested in the project discussions.

Booster Club To Meet Mon.

The Canyon Eagle Booster Club will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Canyon High School cafeteria.

The meeting is to finalize banquet and yearly activities and to start making plans for next year.

RECORDS for check-out service through Canyon City Library were donated this week by the record committee of the Canyon Friends of the Library represented by Mrs. Joe Findley and Dr. Joe Findley. The city librarian, Mary Huntington, right, accepted the records on behalf of the library as the "Friends" invited area residents to check out the records similar to book checkouts, or make gifts of records and collections by contacting the librarian or members of the record committee for the Friends.

Penny Peckenpaugh was a double qualifier for the AAA Regional Meet in the shot put and discus at the district meet held on the WTSU track Wednesday.

Canyon trackster Louise Davis displays the form used to win district in the triple jump. In addition to the triple jump event, Miss Davis will high jump in the Regional Meet to be held in Odessa.

Sprinter Deedy Johnson won both the 100-yard dash and the 60-yard dash Wednesday in the 1-AAA Girl's District Track Meet. Miss Johnson will compete in the upcoming Regional Meet.

Schneider, Townsend Cited

Recognition of Canyon girls basketball coach Bob Schneider and Grammy Award winner Charles Townsend highlighted an early morning breakfast for Chamber of Commerce members and friends Thursday.

Schneider, who has coached the girls to 7 straight state play-off games, received a resolution passed by the chamber board honoring him for his success. The CHS girls basketball team was on hand for the breakfast.

Dr. Townsend, who won the coveted Grammy Award recently for a record album insert relating the life of famed Country-Western Artist Bob Wills, was given a registered branding iron by the chamber.

John Childs, former chamber president, was emcee for the breakfast, which drew more than 100 persons.

Others recognized during the morning hour were Randall Sherrod, new Randall County district attorney, and assistants Wes Clayton and Rick Wilcox; new City Manager Glen Metcalf and new city clerk Tom Plumlee; Buffalo Coach Gene Mayfield, who gave a brief report on football spring training; Dr. Duane Guy, who reported on progress for the planning of Canyon's bi-centennial celebration; John Brazil, county agent, who reported on the status of the county wheat crop; and Lee Webb, executive director of the West Texas Alumni Association.

Mrs. Margaret Harper, founder of the musical drama "TEXAS," showed a brief film promoting the annual summer production.

Taylor & Sons Food of Canyon provided the free breakfast for the early-risers.

Girls Qualify For Regional

Canyon High School will have seven girls competing in the Regional Girl's Track Meet to be held April 18-19 in Odessa.

The tracksters qualified for the event Wednesday during the 1-AAA District Girl's Track Meet conducted on the West Texas State University track.

Both the quarter mile relay team and the mile relay team ran qualifying times for the regional competition. The mile relay team consisting of Janet Sluder, Becky Williams, Marci Davis and Louise Davis came from behind to win first in the district meet. The 440-yard relay team is made up of Deedy Johnson, Vickie Miller, Marci Davis and Louise Davis.

Miss Johnson took first place honors in the 100-yard dash and the 60-yard dash with respective times of 11.3 and 7.1.

Louise Davis qualified for the regional meet in the high jump and the triple jump. She won the district triple jump with a leap of 33.2 and was a second place finisher in the high jump.

Penny Peckenpaugh qualified for the regional meet with her efforts in the shot put and discus throw.

The team was without the services of Robena Johnson, who was responsible for 50 of last year's district meet points. Miss Johnson recently underwent knee surgery.

"Overall, the girls did a real good job. The mile relay team ran well in their come from behind win," Coach Bob Schneider said.

Auxiliary Will Meet

Sue Hite Club Observing Fifty Years Of Federation

FIFTY GOLDEN YEARS OF FEDERATION will be the topic of Jo Carol Lindsey, left, past president of the Top of Texas District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, at a Golden Anniversary Celebration for Canyon's Sue Hite Club on Saturday afternoon, April 19, at the Baptist Student Union in Canyon. Looking over the club's historical scrapbooks with Mrs. Lindsey is Virginia Allen, right, current president of the federated women's club.

Clubyear Opens Annually With Membership Social

Socially, the first September meeting for the Sue Hite Club of Canyon has for many years been a begin-the-year tea. The first tea each fall was held in the home of Mrs. J. A. Hill (Ola Davis) until 1950 when she could no longer hostess the tea.

The club then began conducting luncheons in the homes of members for several years until 1957 when it was adopted that a salad supper be held as the opening event each fall. The salad supper has become a custom with the club.

Traditionally, the last meeting of each club year has been a picnic affair with members and their husbands attending the affair.

Since 1958, the Sue Hite Club membership has participated in the Canyon Federated Club Council's annual fall dinner which is open to members of each of the federated clubs in the city. The club also participates in a "games night" project sponsored by the Council to provide scholarship funds for the Canyon Division of the Opportunity Plan at West Texas State University.

A special Christmas program has been a social event for the club since 1938. Each yuletide season members have an exchange of home-made gifts and also provide gifts to be sent to the State Hospital in Wichita Falls.

In 1960, the club conducted its first "past president's tea" in the home of Mrs. J. O. Parker and since that time the club has continued this observance of past service. The Golden Anniversary Tea and celebration event on April 19 will be an observance of past service by members and those who have led the club for the past 50 years.

Founded As Junior Club In 1925

Canyon's Sue Hite Club was founded in September 1925 as the Junior Woman's Club and later during the club year 1938-39, the membership voted to change the name of the club to the "1925 Culture Club" since members no longer considered themselves as "juniors."

When the club was founded in 1925 it sought and attained federation with the City and State Federation of Women's Clubs and was later affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs in 1939 when the club's name was changed to the "1925 Culture Club."

The club was active as the "1925 Culture Club" for only one year and then sought a name change to become the Sue Hite Club, a name selected honoring the founder, Mrs. John S. Humphreys (Sue Hite).

CHARTER MEMBERS of the Canyon Sue Hite Club when it was formed back in 1925 who still reside locally are, from left, Mrs. Levi Cole, Mrs. Hud Prichard, Mrs. J.M. Daugherty, and Mrs. D.M. Foster. Mrs. Daugherty, a charter member, is no longer active in the club while the others are present members of the club after being among the charter membership 50 years.

Four Of Club's Charter Members Still Involved

Four of the original charter members of the "Junior Woman's Club" are still residents of Canyon and three of those charter members are still members of the federated club which has been known as the Sue Hite Club since 1939-40.

Mrs. Levi Cole has had a continuous membership in the club. She served on the club's original program committee and has served in numerous capacities including the presidential office in 1943-44 when her study theme was "Our World Today." This year she is serving on the research and planning committee for the Golden Anniversary Celebration of the club.

A longtime member of the club, Mrs. Madison Daugherty was a charter member of the club. She is no longer a member of the group and during her membership was quite active in all phases of the club.

Other original members of the club, Mrs. Dewey Foster and Mrs. Hud Prichard still reside in Canyon and are current members of the club. Mrs.

Prichard was the club's second president serving during 1927-28 when the study theme was based on the National Geographic Magazine. She later served another term as president in 1957-59 when the study theme was "Current Events" and "Keeping Posted." Presently she is serving as chairman of the research and planning committee for the Anniversary Celebration of the club's 50th year. Mrs. Dewey Foster is also involved as a member of the research and planning committee for the anniversary celebration to be observed April 19, 1975. She was a charter club member and has served two terms as president in 1947-48 when the study theme was "Our American Heritage" and again in 1954-55 when the study theme was "Our Texas Heritage."

Community Service Project Is Library

The original "Junior Woman's Club" began its service to the community during the early years of clublife by joining the already existing Woman's Book Club with the operation of the first public library.

Library facilities at that time were located in the clubroom at the courthouse and from the Junior Woman's Club (current Sue Hite Club), Mrs. Hud Prichard, Mrs. Ray Daniel and Mrs. Levi Cole were appointed as a purchasing committee for new books. The two clubs continued to have committees operating the library each year until the formation of the library as a county facility. After becoming a county library, three board members have been elected annually to serve on the Library Board.

Over the years, the Sue Hite Club delved into the sponsorship of a children's division at the library and various club members were appointed to read stories during the "Children's Hour." This service to the community's youngsters has recently been assumed by the newly organized Friends of the Canyon City Library which has a large number of clubwomen from Sue Hite Club and other clubs of the city involved in its membership.

The Sue Hite Club also established a special Ola Davis Hill memorial shelf at the city library and annually presents a special selection for this shelf in memory of Mrs. Hill. Mrs. Hill's daughter, Marion of Borger, is expected to attend the local federated club's anniversary.

Organizational Meeting Of Club Recorded In Minutes

Original minutes for the organizational meeting of the Sue Hite Club of Canyon are shared here by Mrs. Hud Prichard, a charter member of the club. The club was organized on September 14, 1925 with a group of women meeting in the home of Mrs. J. S. Humphreys (now deceased).

Serving as temporary chairman at the organizational meeting was Miss Esther Rudolph and Mrs. Ralph Harter served in the capacity of temporary secretary.

At the organizational meeting the club adopted the name of "Junior Woman's Club" and elected as charter officers: Mrs. Jim Green, president; Miss Esther Rudolph, vice president;

Mrs. Hud Prichard, recording secretary; Mrs. Madison Daugherty, treasurer; Mrs. Earl Potter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ralph Harter, reporter; and Mrs. Dewey Foster, parliamentarian.

At the organizational meeting the study program of "national parks" was adopted and a motion was made and carried to join the club to the City Federation and use the clubroom of the courthouse for a regular meeting place. The club also approved for first and third Saturday meetings at 3 o'clock.

In further business at the organizational session, members moved and carried that it be placed in the club constitution and by-laws that any member missing three consecutive meetings be automatically dropped from the membership roll, unless the member be out of town for a length of time or absent due to illness.

The club also voted to limit its membership to twenty-four, assessed dues at $1.25 per year, and voted to assess a fee of $1 for members failing to bring up their part or see that it was prepared and given by another member of the club.

And thus, with business concluded, the club adjourned until the first regular meeting to be held on September 19, 1925.

While sharing the club's minutes from the organizational meeting Mrs. Prichard noted that the club's founder, Mrs.

Humphreys (now deceased), will be represented at the 50th Anniversary event by her daughter, Addie Jean (Mrs. Thomas Shriver) from Nashville, Tenn.

Original charter members of the club were Mrs. R. E. Ball, Mrs. Sanford Black, Mrs. A. R. Eastwood, Mrs. Jim Green, Mrs. Earl Potter and Miss Esther Rudolph (now deceased); and Mrs. Walter Black, Mrs. Frank Hicks, Mrs. Mark Foster, Mrs. Ralph Harter, Mrs. Wray D. Smith, and Mrs. Roy Tate; and Mrs. Levi Cole, who has maintained a continuous membership in the club since its inception; Mrs. Madison Daugherty, who has since dropped her membership in the club; and Mrs. Dewey Foster and Mrs. Hud Prichard, both charter members who took inactive status for awhile and are now active members of the club.

Wedding Shower Fetes Newlyweds At Brandt Home

A wedding shower for Raymond Irlbeck and his bride, the former Miss Pamela Friemel, was held Sunday, April 6, at the Jack Brandt home in the U-marger area.

Guests were received by the hostess and honoree with Mrs. A. R. Friemel, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Fred Irlbeck, mother of the bridegroom, in the receiving line.

A floral bouquet featuring fabric flowers with baby's breath and yellow straw flowers centered the reception table. The table was laid with a hand crocheted lace cloth over blue as the bride's sisters, Gwen Urioste and Yvonne Whalen, both of Amarillo, served refreshments.

Assisting Mrs. Brandt with hostess duties were Mesdames John L. Wiek, Lewis Tuck, Carl Hartman, Jr., Tommy Brock and Alvin Friemel.

Birthday Gifts From The Friends

Birthday gifts for patients of LaCasa Canyon Nursing Home will result from the recent fundraising efforts of the volunteer "Friends" of LaCasa.

The Friends organization held a bake sale recently earning approximately $70 which will primarily be used for patient birthday gifts with excess money used for special decorations, according to Stelcie Williams.

On April 16 the Friends are planning to provide and serve a casserole luncheon for residents of the home.

Cadette Scouts Host Dessert-Game Party

Cadette Girl Scouts of Troop 54 entertained their parents with a dessert and game party Friday evening, April 4, at the Canyon Girl Scout Building.

The scouts led the neighbor game, musical chairs and other entertainment during the evening and were hostesses for the various desserts served. The evening was a challenge badge effort for the local scouts as about 25 were entertained.

SNACKS CAN BE SMACKING GOOD.....and NUTRITIOUS

no need to sacrifice vitamins and minerals to satisfy kids' taste.

"Where do those children get all that energy?"

Children at play never cease to amaze grown-ups. The constant activity so typical in young people is fueled by the foods they eat—at mealtime or as snacks.

Children like foods that are easy to eat with a spoon or in-hand, are served in small size portions, are mildly seasoned, look attractive and are colorful. Most moms prefer snacks that are quick to prepare on a moment's notice or are simple enough for the children to make themselves. In today's world, they also must be economical. The following snack recipes have low cost in mind. They omit expensive ingredients yet are nutritious foods that are fun to eat.

MOLASSES OAT BREAD

½ cup margarine
¼ cup (packed) light brown sugar
¼ cup light molasses
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup milk, scalded
2- ¼ oz. pkgs. active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
(105-115 F.)
2 eggs, beaten
5 to 5- ½ cups flour
2 cups uncooked rolled oats, regular or quick
Water
Additional rolled oats

Combine margarine, brown sugar, molasses and salt in large mixing bowl. Add milk; stir until margarine is melted. Cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in warm water. Add to milk mixture. Stir in eggs, 2 cups flour and rolled oats. Add flour as needed to make soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; turn once to grease top. Cover and let rise in draft-free place until double in size. Punch down; let rest 10 minutes. Divide into 2 equal portions. Shape each into a loaf 9 inches long. Brush each loaf with water and roll in additional rolled oats. Place in greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Let rise in warm area until double in size. Bake in 350 F. oven about 50 minutes. Yield: 2 loaves.

OAT PEANUT COOKIES

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup (packed) light brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1- ½ cups uncooked rolled oats, quick or regular
1 cup chopped salted peanuts

Sift together flour, soda and salt into mixer bowl. Add shortening, sugars, egg, milk and vanilla; beat with mixer at low speed until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in oats and peanuts. Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in 375 F. oven until lightly browned, about 10 minutes. Yield: About 4 dozen.

BRAN FLAKE MINCEMEAT COOKIES

½ cup shortening or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs

mincemeat, finely crumbled
¼ cup milk
2 cups 40% bran flakes

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Cream shortening, sugar and eggs until light and fluffy. Beat in mincemeat. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately, mixing well. Stir in flakes. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in 350 F. oven until lightly browned, about 12 minutes. Yield: About 5 dozen cookies.

CEREAL BALLS

1 cup creamy or chunky style peanut butter
¾ cup honey
2 cups non-fat dry milk
1 to 1- ¼ cups 40% bran flakes

SPICED MILK

3 cups milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon vanilla, optional

Combine ingredients; beat with rotary beater or whiz in the blender until well mixed. Stir just before pouring over cereal. Yield: About 3 cups, enough for 4 to 6 cereal servings.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS for HOMEMAKERS

Did you ever try to remove a button from a perfectly good article of clothing, only to wind up cutting through the fabric? To save your clothing, slip a comb under the button first and then cut the thread with a razor blade.

To remove black heel marks without redoing the entire floor, rub the marks with fine steel wool dipped in the floor wax that's been used on the rest of the floor.

Did you know that most cheese should be served unchilled in order to bring out its flavor and texture? Twenty minutes or more at room temperature is the best way to serve most cheeses. Of course, cottage and cream cheese are exceptions.

If your brown sugar's hard as a rock and you need to use it right away in a recipe, break off chunks and pulverize them in the blender. Then measure and use as usual.
